

Thursday 2 November 2017

STATEMENT FROM THE CONFEDERATION OF AUSTRALIAN STATE THEATRES (CAST)

In response to incidents and allegations in the broader entertainment industry both here and overseas, we stand together to say that sexual harassment and abuse in any form is unacceptable.

We offer our unwavering support to the courageous people that have already come forward, and to any victims who have not yet had their stories heard – we are here for you.

CAST companies are committed to providing safe theatres and workplaces that are free from harassment and abuse. We are focused on continually improving physical and emotional safety. We feel it is our responsibility to remove the stigma that can be felt by victims, and to encourage them with confidence to initiate formal complaint proceedings, and to seek appropriate counselling services and support.

CAST companies are committed to ensuring that our theatres and spaces are safe for everyone. The wellbeing of those who work for us is of utmost importance.

Gill Perkins, General Manager
Peter Evans, Artistic Director

Sue Donnelly, Executive Director
Eamon Flack, Artistic Director

Natalie Jenkins, Executive Director
Clare Watson, Artistic Director

Lou Oppenheim, General Manager
Rob Tannion, Artistic Director

Sarah Neal, Executive Producer
Matthew Lutton, Artistic Director

Virginia Lovett, Executive Director
Brett Sheehy AO, Artistic Director

Amanda Jolly, Acting Executive Director
Sam Strong, Artistic Director

Jodi Glass, Executive Director/Producer
Geordie Brookman, Artistic Director

Patrick McIntyre, Executive Director
Kip Williams, Artistic Director